

Jobos Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve

Located in Puerto Rico, the Jobos Bay Reserve protects close to 3,000 acres of subtropical dry forest, coral reefs, fringing and basin mangrove forest, seagrass beds, mangrove channels, salt and mud flats, lagoons and freshwater influenced wetlands. The Reserve was designated in 1981.

Photo by: Angel Dieppa

