

North End Farm - According to an archeological survey done in 1981, there is evidence that this site was continuously occupied from the late eighteenth-early nineteenth century until the early twentieth century. Structural remains suggest that at least eight buildings stood on this site, including a house, barn, and outbuildings.

In addition to scattered cultural remains, the island's current vegetative cover also reflects its past agricultural land use. Forests are much younger and contain fewer species than those of pre-colonial times and the impact of introduced non-native invasive species is particularly evident in this area.

Approximately 85% of Prudence Island is protected from development. Properties are protected through direct ownership by a land conservation agency as well as through conservation easements.

NBNERR is installing a series of informative geocaches for your education and enjoyment. Look them up on geocaching.com and go take a hike!

Properties managed by NBNERR are generally open to the public. Restrictions of specific activities may, however, be necessary in sensitive areas or habitats. We ask that you please practice applicable Leave No Trace outdoor principles to assist us in protecting the properties in our care. Available: <http://lnt.org/learn/7-principles>

Note: Principles related to camping and outdoor fires do not apply as these activities are not allowed. For a complete list of RI Management Area rules and regulations, visit: www.dem.ri.gov/pubs/regs/regs/fishwild/parkmgmt.pdf

Baker Farm - This site has a rich history dating back to the 17th century when tenant farms were common throughout the island. With the arrival of the British soldiers during the Revolutionary War, most residents fled and structures were burned to the ground. Tenant farming returned in the 1780's and endured until the latter part of the 19th century. Charles Potter took up residence at Baker Farm after the Civil War and maintained the farm for approximately 30 years. As the farming era came to an end, the popularity of Prudence as a summer resort was growing. With this came the construction of the Prudence Inn in 1894, which served as a boarding house, and remained in operation until the late 1920's. The Baker Farm site was selected to house a foot-and-mouth disease laboratory in 1950; public outcry, among other things, halted these plans and this property (together with the Heritage Unit to the west) was the first to be preserved on the island.

Prudence Island Naval Base - In 1942, the south end became the site of a U.S. Navy ammunition depot. The Navy installation was reduced to caretaker status in 1946, re-opened during the Korean War, and remained an active storage ammunition facility until the early 1970s. The Navy property was transferred to the State of Rhode Island in 1980 as part of the Federal Lands to Parks program and was, for a period of years, maintained as part of the State's Bay Islands Park system. Today it is a component of the Research Reserve and serves as its' primary headquarters.

Past land use history in this area has resulted in the variety of habitats and management challenges present today. In addition to aging infrastructure, many habitats are dependent upon continued disturbance to persist. Habitat management activities include mowing, selective- and clear-cutting, and the application of prescribed fire.

Sand Point Lighthouse - Built in 1823, it was originally located at the end of the breakwater on Goat Island in Newport. It was moved to its present location in 1851.

Legend

- Primary Road*
- Secondary Road
- Restricted Vehicle Access Road
- Interpretive Trail
- Unblazed Trail
- Blazed Trail [Sets of unique blazing designate individual trails, see map for trail names and symbols]
- Public Parking
- Public Restroom
- Elevation (in feet)
- Public Boatramp
- Picnic Area
- High : 200
- NBNERR Properties
- 10 ft Elevation Contour
- 50 ft Elevation Contour
- Low : 0

Notes:

- Trail segment distances provided in miles.
- Only live docking is permitted at Town and State docks.
- Vehicle access to the South End is restricted during the hunting season (and hikers are required to wear orange).
- *Primary roads are mixed surface (paved and unpaved) roads and this designation simply indicates routes which are more frequently traveled.

The T-Wharf and adjacent beach offers an excellent RI Blueways destination. The nearest mainland boat launch is at Weaver Cove in Portsmouth.

*Data used to create this map were developed by NBNERR staff or obtained through RIGIS [(c) 1990]. Printed: July 2012

Farnham Farm

Trail installation and maintenance is accomplished through all-volunteer effort.

Stop by the barn at the Farnham Farm to find out how you can support this work.

Today, the results of Mr. Clachrie's efforts are visible and well-known to islanders, and new generations of "Trail Gang" volunteers have picked up and carried on these efforts for the benefit of current and future islanders.

This activity grew in size and scope and became a daily activity for these three retirees. Mowers were acquired, and gas powered trimmers, plus various hand tools. Financial support was sought from individuals and island organizations such as the historical society and Prudence Conservancy. The Conservancy soon adopted this "Trail Gang," which initially was called the "Chain Gang." Making and maintaining trails soon became the gang's primary activity, as Mr. Clachrie was very interested in providing walking paths for islanders to utilize. The first trail that they made was one that led from Narragansett Ave, south of the Fire Station, to the site of the Baker Farm. This Trail was initially named the "Christmas Trail" although the name was changed several times, finally becoming the "Clachrie Trail," after Mr. Clachrie passed away.

Sunset Trail

Prudence Island is rich in history, both cultural and natural. The island has changed dramatically over the last few centuries and been involved in Revolutionary War to a thriving resort community. Below are a few of the highlights to look for as you explore the island, which we hope will enrich your visit.

NBNER Lab & Learning Center - The NBNER lab headquarters are a great place to familiarize yourself with the island, including the keeper's ongoing research and stewardship projects. Our lab and learning center offers opportunities to learn about islanders and hands-on activities. During the summer months, the Estuary Education Shed (located at the base of the T-wharf) is open to visitors. Inside you will find a touch tank and several aquariums. Stocked with critters from the Bay, as well as fun activities for the kids. As you explore the island, you are likely to see signs of our restoration projects, which include the removal of invasive species (European larch, privet, ginkgo, autumn olive), controlled burning of pine barrens habitat and maintaining areas as coastal grasslands.

Prudence Island Schoolhouse

Farnham Farm - Farnham Farm was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 2006, recognized for its significance as the last working farm on Prudence Island when it ceased operating in the 1950's. Farming first began here in the mid-1600's and continued until the British burned the area during the Revolutionary War. Farming resumed again in the early 1800's. The Farnham family worked this land from the 1860's until the 1950's, operating a dairy farm as well as growing corn, fruits and vegetables. Today, the Farnham Farm land is owned by the Prudence Conservancy and is operated by the Farnham Farm Trustees, Community members take great care to maintain garden plots, a clubberry patch and a small meadow.

Prudence Island Schoolhouse - Built in 1896 by Captain Halsey Chase, the Prudence Island School is the last functional one-room schoolhouse in Rhode Island. It was the fourth schoolhouse built on Prudence Island, replacing one that used to stand north of the Baker Farm site. The school was closed from 1981-1989 but has otherwise remained active for over 100 years. They operate under a home-school model with student ages ranging from pre-kindergarten through high school. Only a handful of students attend the school now, but many island residents remember going to school here. An addition to include bathrooms and a kitchen was built in 1954, with another small room added in the 1990's. The bell, originally a fog bell, was donated by George Williams, an island resident at the time and descendant of Roger Williams.

Prudence Park (Stone Wharf) - Newport until 1918, and the lure of escaping the summer heat of the city brought many people to Prudence Island. It was soon a thriving resort village, complete with inns, a casino, gas streetlights and a bathing pavilion. From here you can see Hope Island to the west, another island managed by NBNER. It is a significant nesting site for several species of wading birds, and for this reason is off limits during the spring and summer months.

Division Wall - In the mid 1630's, a large boulder (Division Rock) was used as a survey point to divide the island in half, with Roger Williams owning the northern half and Governor John Winthrop owning the southern half. Approximately fifty years later, Benjamin Beman requested that his land be surveyed so that he could determine the exact boundary location of his property on the south end of the island. The surveyors began a line at Division Rock that ran east until nearly reaching the shore, subsequently dividing the island in half. There is a beautiful well-maintained trail that runs the length of what is now known as Division Wall.

General Information

- Prudence Island is accessible via ferry (vehicles and passengers), departing from Bristol (www.pruenceferry.com). Bikes are a good way to get around the island, but bear in mind many of the roads have deep ruts and are not well paved; bikes with thick, wide tires are ideal and bringing a spare is always a good idea.
- The only public restrooms on the island are located at the NBNER headquarters (typically open M-F, 9AM-3:30PM) and there is a composting toilet at the south end near the T-wharf.
- There are no overnight accommodations or restaurants, but there is a small general store at the ferry landing at Homestead.
- Boats are permitted 10 minute live docking at state docks, but aside from that there are no public docking options.
- Ticks are present and in relatively high quantities. It is wise to stay out of any tall grasses and conduct a thorough tick check after your visit.
- In the event of an emergency, dial 911 and note that you are on Prudence Island.

The Narragansett Bay Research Reserve was dedicated in 1980 and is one of 28 protected estuaries in the National Estuarine Research Reserve System (NERRS), a partnership program between NOAA and the coastal states. The Reserve is located in the heart of Narragansett Bay on four islands: Prudence, Patience, Hope and Dyer and protects approximately 4400 acres of land and water; the headquarters are located on the south end of Prudence Island. The Reserve's mission is "to preserve, protect and restore coastal and estuarine ecosystems of Narragansett Bay through long-term research, education and training."

NBNER Lab & Learning Center

Pine Hill Trail

TRAIL MAP

Prudence Island, RI

Developed and distributed courtesy of the Narragansett Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve

NBNER, 55 South Reserve Drive, Prudence Island, RI 02872

(401) 683 6780, www.nber.org

Suggested Trails

Prudence Island offers 11.7 miles of hiking along blazed trails and restricted-vehicle access roads. These trails pass through a variety of habitat types and showcase a diverse array of natural, historical, and ecological stewardship features that are unique to Prudence Island. Many trails parallel the shore of Narragansett Bay, making Prudence Island one of the best places in Rhode Island to experience long, undeveloped stretches of the Bay's coastline. The hikes listed below are just a sample of the many hiking possibilities that exist on Prudence Island.

Easy

- 1. Sunset Trail. This 1.0 mile (round-trip) out-and-back hike starts at the trailhead on the south side of Chase Way. Scenic views of the West Passage of Narragansett Bay are common along most of the route.
- 2. Pine Hill. This scenic 1.1 mile loop hike in the Reserve's Pine Hill area passes through upland grasslands and includes a natural overlook with dramatic views of Narragansett Bay. Proceed south from the locked green gate for 0.11 miles and take the first right. Continue 0.28 miles, turn left and continue for another 0.26 miles. Turn left again at road's end and continue for 0.12 miles and then either turn left to return to the gate or continue straight for another 0.12 miles to reach Jenny Marsh and long stretches of isolated beach.
- 3. Bay Avenue. This 1.4 mile (round-trip) out-and-back begins at the old Stone Wharf on the west side of Prudence Island. The trail initially passes a few 19th century homes before continuing south along an abandoned road with nice views of the West Passage of Narragansett Bay.
- 4. Division Wall and Ballard Trails. This 1.76 mile loop hike follows the historic Division Wall Trail and returns on Prudence Island's newest hiking trail (the Ballard Trail). The hike begins at a signed trailhead along Bay Avenue on the west side of Prudence Island, 0.5 miles south of Chase Way. It follows gently rolling terrain and passes through oak-dominated woodlands intermixed with stone walls and pockets of pitch-pine barrens.

Moderate

- 5. South End Interpretive Trail. This 1.9-mile self-guided interpretive trail includes 14 stops with information on the cultural and natural history of the South End of Prudence Island. It starts and ends at the T-wharf and continues in a loop on a mix of paved and dirt roads that pass through a wide-variety of interesting habitat types and old Navy bunkers. Interpretive guides can be obtained for free from the Reserve's Education Shed at the T-wharf or from the Lab and Learning Center to the north.
- 6. Baker Farm Loop. This 2.7 mile figure-eight hike showcases the historic Baker Farm and the extensive interior forests of Prudence Island. The hike suggested here begins at the Heritage-Army Camp trailhead on Broadway. Follow this trail north for 0.42 miles to Baker Farm and continue straight for another 0.40 miles to the intersection with the Division Wall Trail. Turn right and continue for 0.31 miles and then turn right again to follow the Diamond Trail for 0.42 miles to return to Baker Farm. Return to the beginning by following the Schoolhouse Trail for 0.63 miles and turning left on Broadway.
- 7. Providence Point Trail. This 4.0-mile (roundtrip) out-and-back hike begins at the locked green gate to the Reserve's North End Unit and introduces visitors to the seldom-visited north end of Prudence Island. Highlights include Coggeshall Marsh, the historic North End Farm, and Providence Point (the extreme northern tip of Prudence Island with views to Providence). Four spur trails (ranging from 0.2-0.4 miles each) provide additional access to Potter Cove and Coggeshall Cove with views across to Patience Island. Warning: In summer this area is often swarming with mosquitoes, horse flies, ticks and other biting insects.

Difficult

- 8. Prudence Island Traverse. This unique and ambitious hike extends 18 miles (round-trip) between the northern and southern tips of Prudence Island. It links up some of the best trails and points of interest on the island including the South End Interpretive, Sunset, Division Wall, and Providence Point Trails, as well as the Baker and North End Farms. The Traverse makes use of maintained trails, limited-access roads, and primary roads; much of this hike is along shoreline roads and trails, providing excellent views of Narragansett Bay throughout the day. Allow at least 8 hours and be aware of time limitations due to the ferry schedule (the last ferry of the day generally leaves at 6:00 pm and there are no overnight accommodations on Prudence Island). Start the hike at the ferry landing on the east side of Prudence Island. Begin by hiking west on Pier Road, directly across from the ferry landing. After 0.15 miles, turn left on the Buzzy Rice Trail and proceed for 0.30 miles. At trail end, turn right and continue 0.10 miles to the Diamond Trail, on left. Proceed southwest for 0.23 miles on the Diamond Trail (keeping right at fork), then bear left onto the Heritage-Army Camp Trail and follow this for 0.82 miles, passing Baker Farm along the way. Bear left on Broadway, proceed for 0.24 miles, and bear right on Narragansett Ave. Follow this for 0.19 miles to the small parking area and bear left. Proceed for 0.13 miles down a gentle hill and then turn right on East Shore Drive; follow this for 0.96 miles along the Island's southeastern shoreline until its intersection with Seal Rock Road. Bear left, proceed for 0.06 miles, and turn right; continue 0.43 miles to the T-wharf. Turn right on the main road and take an immediate left onto the South End Interpretive Trail; follow this for 0.91 miles and bear left at the intersection. Follow this road along the shoreline for 0.51 miles to a small grass parking area. Continue north past three private homes to reach the Bay Avenue Trail; follow this for approximately 0.72 miles to the Stone Wharf. Continue north along the main road for 0.92 miles and join the Sunset Trail; follow this for 0.51 miles. At Chase Way, emerge back out onto the main road and follow this northeast for 0.36 miles to the three-way intersection between the two sides of Nag Marsh. Bear left and continue on the road for 1.9 miles until it dead-ends at the green gate to the Reserve's North End Unit. Continue north on the Providence Point Trail for 2.0 miles to its terminus at Providence Point. Backtrack along the same route to the southern end of the Sunset Trail. Bear left and cross the road to begin the Division Wall Trail; follow this for 0.79 miles and return to the ferry landing via the Diamond and Buzzy Rice trails and Pier Road. Numerous side-trips and variations on this suggested route are possible.